

Weekly Active Users Update

Our weekly active user count has shown consistent growth since the redesign launched. We started the tracking period at 12,400 weekly active users in week one. By week two, that figure had grown to 13,100. The momentum continued into week three, reaching 14,800 users, before a slight dip in week four to 14,200, likely due to a brief outage on our authentication service. Week five saw a strong rebound to 16,500 users, and by week six we had climbed further still to 18,900 weekly active users, our highest figure yet.

The product team is cautiously optimistic that this upward trajectory will continue into the next reporting period, assuming no further service disruptions.